4 External Services

4.1 PrestaShop

Our online shop uses the PrestaShop shop system (PrestaShop S.A., 12 rue d'Amsterdam, 75009 Paris). The data you enter in our online shop are processed by PrestaShop on our behalf according to Art. 28 GDPR.

For more information on how PrestaShop handles your personal data, please refer to their privacy policy: <https://www.prestashop.com/de/datenschutz>.

5 Links

Our website contains links to pages of third parties. We are not responsible for the content and privacy practices on external websites that you can access through the links. Please inform yourself about the privacy practices directly on the corresponding websites.

6 Disclosure of Data to Third Parties

To provide you with the information on our website, we work with various service providers, namely IT service providers, to provide you with a contemporary website. They use your data only within the scope of order processing for us.

Except for the provisions of this privacy policy, we do not transfer data to entities outside Switzerland and the European Union (third country) without your consent unless this is required by the respective contract, to fulfill legal obligations, or to protect our legitimate interests.

6.1 Google Analytics

We use Google Analytics to analyze website usage. The data obtained from this is used to optimize our website and advertising measures.

Google Analytics is provided by Google Ireland Limited (Gordon House, Barrow Street, Dublin 4, Ireland). Google processes the data on website usage on our behalf and contractually commits to measures to ensure the security and confidentiality of the processed data.

During your website visit, the following data, among others, are recorded:

- Accessed pages
- Your behavior on the pages (e.g., dwell time, clicks, scrolling behavior)
- Your approximate location (country and city)
- Your IP address (in shortened form, so that no clear assignment is possible)
- Technical information such as browser, internet provider, device, and screen resolution
- Source of your visit (i.e., which website or advertising medium brought you to us)

Personal data such as name, address, or contact details are never transferred to Google Analytics.

These data are transferred to Google's servers in the USA. We point out that in the USA, data protection laws may not guarantee the same level of protection as within the EU.

Google Analytics stores cookies in your web browser for a period of two years from your last visit. These cookies contain a randomly generated user ID that allows you to be recognized during future website visits.

The recorded data are stored together with the randomly generated user ID, which allows the evaluation of pseudonymous user profiles. These user-related data are automatically deleted after 14 months. Other data remain stored in aggregated form indefinitely.

If you disagree with the collection, you can prevent this by installing the browser add-on to disable Google Analytics (<https://tools.google.com/dlpage/gaoptout?hl=de>).

You can find the Google Analytics privacy policy at <https://support.google.com/analytics/answer/6004245>.

7 Your Rights

To the extent provided by applicable data protection law, you can request free information about the stored data relating to you, their origin and recipients, and the purpose of data processing. You also have the right, under the legal conditions, to request the correction, deletion, restriction of the stored data, and the data usage, and if the GDPR is applicable, the right to object to the transfer of the data to another location.

You can revoke any consent given by you at any time with effect for the future. A simple email to us is sufficient for this.

Please note that the above rights are subject to legal restrictions and may impair or make impossible the provision of our services.

You have the right to enforce your claims in court or to lodge a complaint with the competent data protection authority. For Switzerland, the Federal Data Protection and Information Commissioner is responsible (<http://www.edoeb.admin.ch>).
